1984.. THE YEAR IN REVIEW

January

5 . . . The frigid weather during the Christmas holidays caused problems at homes and businesses throughout south Alabama as water pipes froze and cracked. The most severe problem occurred at the New Brockton Elementary School, where the modern sprinkler system froze when the temperature dipped to 7°, filling ten classrooms with three inches of water.

12 . . . A spectacular pre-dawn blaze on Thursday, January 5, completely destroyed a home on West Simmons Street in Elba, and kept firefighters from Elba, New Brockton and Opp busy for almost two hours before being brought under control.

19 . . . Former Coffee County Probate Judge James L. Sawyer has been ordered by state examiners to replace more than $20,000 in county funds that was discovered missing following a recent audit.

26 . . . A memorial service was held Sunday afternoon at one o'clock in the cemetery of Friendship Baptist Church in the Bullock Community. The service was held for the late Mary Dossey and her daughter Marcy. Marcy died on February 3, 1982, while her mother was killed on January 1, 1984, of a shotgun blast. Roy Dossey, the husband and father, was arrested and charged with killing his wife. The body of the child was exhumed to determine cause of death.

9 . . . The Elba City School Board met Tuesday evening in a meeting postponed from the previous Thursday and heard Supt. John Osburn tell board members that bids on the half-million-dollar remodeling project at the high school would be opened next week.

16 . . . The trial of an Elba man charged with arson ended in a mistrial last week after the jury announced it was hopelessly deadlocked after over two hours of deliberation. The Elba man, Bill Wildon, was charged with arson in the October 2, 1982, fire at his home.

23 . . . A Federal Grand Jury has indicted five persons in connection with the July 19, 1983, robbery of the Coffee County Bank of Kinston. The alleged robbers reportedly got $71,057 in the holdup at Kinston.

March

1 . . . The Elba City Council met Monday night and in spite of lengthy discussions, took the two major items under advisement to be decided at a later date. A collection agency offer was deferred until a decision is made by the Water and Electric Board, while a revision in the contract concerning the hydro plant was postponed until the council can get additional information.

8 . . . A picture on the front page showed a house trailer located at the intersection of the Shellfield Road and Hwy. 27 that was completely destroyed Monday afternoon by a tornado that caused major damage to Coffee and Dale County.

15 . . . Dawn Smith, a 16-year-old junior at Elba High School, was named Miss Elba last week at the annual pageant. First runner-up was Ceina Hayes and second runner-up was Jennifer Farris. Dawn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith.

April

5 . . . A steady rain did little to dampen the spirits of the 92 members of the Elba High School band Monday night as they boarded three chartered buses for the trip to Washington, D.C. and a week's stay at the nation's capitol. The band is the only band from Alabama chosen to participate in this weekend's annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

12 . . . A New Brockton police officer has been released under a $5,000 bond after being arrested over the weekend on a charge of first-degree rape. The officer, Luther Reb Bludsworth, age 23, had been on the New Brockton police force for two months.

19 . . . Three Ft. Rucker aviators were killed Monday morning when the UH-1 helicopter they were flying crashed in a swampy area approximately one mile from Skelley Field, near the Perry's Store Community. All three crewmen were pronounced dead at the scene.

24 . . . The Coffee County District Attorney's Office revealed last week that it had filed a suit against former Probate Judge James L. Sawyer for payment of $20,613.42 to cover a shortage of probate funds that occurred during his final term in office. Sawyer must pay off the shortage because as the head of the office he was legally responsible.

31 . . . The Alabama State Dept. of Education released the results of the 1984 California Achievement Tests and the results of this spring's Alabama High School Graduation Exam on May 17 and the tests revealed that students in the Elba City School System scored above the average in both areas of testing.

June

7 . . . The Pin Hook Inn, a popular nightspot located approximately half-a-mile past the Crenshaw County line off Highway 189 North, was completely destroyed by a fire early Monday morning that also took the life of one man and seriously injured another. Killed in the 3 a.m. blaze was R.T. "T-Bone" Coleman, who was trapped in a back room.

14 . . . A 12-year-old Greenville girl,

28 . . . The recent increase in the number of cases of rabies in wild animals in the Elba area has prompted state and city officials to issue a warning to all Elba residents. According to Dr. Wayne Mancill, there have been five cases of rabies in the past six months, which is nearly an epidemic stage.

July

5 . . . Russell Cash, a member of Dorsey Trailers' Engineering Division for more than 23 years, has been appointed to the newly-created position of chief corporate engineer. At the time of the appointment, Cash held the title of senior engineer at Dorsey.

The basis for the consolidation was decreasing enrollment, with only a total of 150 students expected to attend the rural school this fall.

26 . . . The Elba City Council met Monday evening, and along with routine business, heard from a mad councilman who was upset over what he thought was a case where the mayor "went ahead and circumvented the vote of the council". Councilman Sonny Inman made the allegation concerning the city's plan to construct a new band room.

August

2 . . . Mrs. Gladys H. Yelverton became the first black ever elected to a public office in Coffee County on Tuesday when she was elected to serve on the Elba City Council. Yelverton defeated incumbent Sonny Inman in a runoff election.

Happy New Year

A Continuing Wish For The Coming Year

Brainstorms.....

With Ferrin Cox

The Alabama legislature has done it again. Many of us get very upset and lose faith in our lawmakers when we see them openly feathering their own nests at the expense of the taxpayers. The recent vote to take a Christmas vacation with full pay and expenses is just another example of this continuing activity. The only action the House and the Senate could agree on was to take the holiday with pay and expenses. The extra money amounts to $85 a day, seven days a week. To the credit of the House of Representatives, they voted to forego the pay for the holidays, but the Senate members needed all that money to buy Christmas . . . I guess.

The man in New York who is accused of shooting four youths on the subway has quickly acquired a fan club. It seems that New Yorkers are fed up with crime on the subways and are rallying to the support of the man who shot the youths who were reportedly trying to "shake him down". News reports indicate several of the youths had sharpened screwdrivers in their pockets when searched by police. We don't advocate everyone carrying guns in their pockets, but then someone needs to let those who live off violence to others know that civilization has not ended.

Recently we received a Sunday morning call of county equipment being used to work on private property. We finished breakfast, picked up our camera and headed for Victoria. When we got to the appointed spot, no equipment was seen in use, but there were signs of recent work and muddy tracks leading from the site back to where several pieces of county equipment were parked. Our informant said it had been going on for several days and that other times county trucks have been used in the area to haul firewood. We don't like this at all and challenge county officials to do something about it immediately.

The football bowl games are over now but the battle of words is still on about just which team is No. 1. While we don't vote in any of the polls and will not lose a lot of sleep over the final vote, we get a little aggravated at phone-in votes that are strictly popularity contests being used as "evidence" someone is not qualified to be No. 1. There is no perfect way to select a No. 1 team, but as far as this writer is concerned, the present methods will do, as we surely don't want the hassle of a playoff system.

We are now into 1985 and with the new year come many resolutions of all the things we are going to do or do better. Several years ago this writer stopped making resolutions, but that in itself may not be so good. My reasons were that often (translate "usually") my resolutions fell by the wayside and by not making any I wouldn't fail in my objective. However, having no objectives to strive for leaves us sitting in one place - and that in itself is failure. Well, enough of that rambling around - let us just wish each of you a Happy New Year!

Letter To

The Editor

Dear Mr. Cox,

This year the community response of the citizens of Elba to help the needy at Christmas has been tremendous. Groups and individuals have sponsored different projects and families. Certainly, all of these community-minded individuals contributed to a Merry Christmas for many Elba residents.

The Elba Jaycees sponsored the shopping spree for several children. The Elba Jayceettes contributed to numerous projects, including presents for the area for several children. The Elba Jaycees donated toys to Operation Santa Claus. Operation Santa Claus in Elba this year served over 130 children. Officer James Spurlin of the Elba Police Department devoted long hours of his own time to organizing this project and making it a great success.

To the many citizens of Elba who helped make Christmas brighter for those in need - our heartfelt thanks.

/s/ [MRS.] CATHIE HANSEN
Welfare Supervisor I

Mr. & Mrs. Weeks Honored On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fonzel Weeks celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception at their home in the Basin Community on Sunday, December 16, from two until four o'clock in the afternoon.

Their children were hosts for the reception.

The Weeks were united in marriage December 15, 1934, in Elba, by Rev. Walter Parker.

Catherine Hysmith, their only daughter, greeted guests at the door under a lovely arrangement of golden wedding bells. She presented the guests to her parents, and their two sons, Donald and Jerry. Guests were registered by Doris Matthews, niece of the honored couple.

The round registry table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and held the registry book, a candle and golden mums.

Mrs. Weeks chose for the occasion a pink dress of silk organza.

She wore a gold silk corsage. Mr. Weeks wore a gray pinstripe suit with a gold boutonniere.

The reception room was beautifully decorated with large poinsettias and ferns. The table was covered with a gold lace cloth and was centered with a tall candelabrum with gold burning tapers. The mantle was attractively decorated with greenery.

The punch bowl and held delicious golden punch, which was served by Sue Adkinson. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with the numerals "50" and wedding bells, was served by Bettie Boland. Other refreshments consisted of minis, roasted mixed nuts, cheese straws and coffee.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Melvone Boland.

Approximately 113 friends and relatives enjoyed this special occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Weeks, their children and grandchildren.

Paul, the apostle, was a man who kept all these dimensions in perspective. He sought to make the most of each one. He looked to the past with mixed emotions. Surely, there were things in his past that he would have liked to be different. Even though his early life was spent as a very religious person, still it was not as a Christian. In fact he had tried to blot out Christianity and was on a mission of destruction, when he met the Lord on the road to Damascus. Many today are guilty of doing the same thing; they are very religious yet they are intent on destroying Christianity.

Philippians 3 lists Paul's religious credentials. He had been circumcised on the eighth day; he was a Hebrew of the Hebrews; he had faithfully kept the law; he had been very zealous as a Pharisee, even persecuting the church. Most people would judge this young man as a very promising religious person. However when Paul came to know Jesus, he became an entirely new person. Paul looked upon his old religious credentials as meaningless and worthless. He was willing to put these all aside that he might win Christ. His burning desire was "to know Christ and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His suffering, being made conformable to His death and to attain unto the resurrection of the dead." Philippians 3:10-11.

REV. FRED KELLEY

"FORGETTING...AND REACHING FORTH"

The year 1984 is now history. Today is the third day of the new year. For many the year 1984 was a wonderful, joyous and fruitful year. On the other hand, for some, the year has been one of frustration, disappointment, sorrow and trouble. Regardless of what the year may have been, it is now past. Moreover, the events of the year, whether good or bad, cannot be changed.

However, the beginning of a new year is a good time for reflection on the events of the past, a time to look seriously at the present, and also a time to consider the future. Successful living is learning to properly relate to these three dimensions of time. One needs to reflect on the past in order to make the present and the future better. He needs to think of the present, for this is one's immediate concern. But then, one is always planning and working in order that the future will be what one desires it to be.

Paul, the apostle, was a man who kept all these dimensions in perspective. He sought to make the most of each one. He looked to the past with mixed emotions. Surely, there were things in his past that he would have liked to be different. Even though his early life was spent as a very religious person, still it was not as a Christian. In fact he had tried to blot out Christianity and was on a mission of destruction, when he met the Lord on the road to Damascus. GARDENING

Porter Helms, whose farm is located on Highway 84 west just out of Enterprise, takes a lot of pride in gardening and caring for his pecan and fruit trees. A few weeks back he sent a soil sample to the lab at Auburn. This week he got the results back and came by the office to get lined up on the exact time and fertilizer requirements for both his garden and his orchard. His recommendations called for nitrogen and potash. The phosphorus in his garden tested extremely high.

Peaches, plums, apples, and pears do not require much fertilizer, but they do require some. We have information on how to fertilize individual trees.

A garden or orchard soil test is good for three years. Be sure to take advantage of the soil testing laboratory to bring as much precision as you can into fertilizing and timing your garden and fruit trees.

TECHNOLOGY

Frank Britt was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama Peanut Producers Association in their annual meeting which was held in Dothan. Dykes Adkison of the Fairview Community was elected a member of the Advisory Board from Coffee County.

For the peanut producers' program, Dr. Gale Buchanan, director of the Experiment Station at Auburn, selected a panel of specialists to discuss peanut production in 1985. Most of the panel members emphasized the importance of using the full recommendations in producing an acre of quota peanuts. They indicated that for non-quota peanuts it might be possible to cut back some on inputs.

All speakers emphasized the importance of taking advantage of technology available in soil fertility and in weed, disease, and insect control. A lot of growers and peanut leaders think times may get worse for peanut producers in the years ahead. A lot hinges on the 1985 faro bill.

PECAN TREE MANAGEMENT

One of the best ways to prevent insect and disease damage in pecan trees is to keep underneath the trees clean. Just recently Dr. Bill Goff, Auburn's pecan specialist, told a group of pecan growers at the Farm Center in New Brockton that sanitation is one of the keys to successful home pecan production.

Most home pecan growers are not equipped to spray trees, and they cannot afford commercial sprayers to come in and do this job for them. It is just too expensive. Raking up the leaves, dead limbs, mummied nuts, and twigs will go a long way toward reducing insect and disease damage on pecans.

Incidentally, be sure to put out a mixed fertilizer which includes zinc by February 1. Ammonium nitrate should also be applied at the same time. A lot of pecan growers wait entirely too late to apply fertilizer and nitrogen. Be sure to get this done by February 1.

SEWING KNITS

Before cutting, shrink knit fabrics in the washer and dryer. This not only can shorten the length of the fabric, but the process also removes any finish on the fabric that can cause skipped stitches at the machine.

Sometimes the pattern calls for a 1/4" seam. But why not cut all seams 5/8"? On knits, wider seam allowances are much easier to control at the machine than narrow ones.

USING CARPET FRESHENERS

What about powdered carpet fresheners and their long-term effects on carpets and vacuum cleaners?

Research has shown that carpet fresheners don't have any damaging effect on the carpet itself. But they leave a residue in the carpet that builds up because the vacuum cleaner doesn't completely remove the residue. Minor color changes might occur on some types of dark carpet if carpet fresheners are used regularly.

With normal use, there shouldn't be any harmful effects on the vacuum, either. Fresheners do contain a fine powder which can seal the pores of the vacuum cleaner bag decreasing the cleaning performance of the vacuum. If you use a carpet freshener, change the vacuum bag often.

MICROWAVE PROBLEMS AND ANSWERS

Why are some foods tough, dry or dehydrated when cooked in a microwave? Foods that are cooked too long or at a power level higher than recommended, may well become tough, hard and dry. Be sure to use recommended time and cook-power for amount of food cooked. Check for doneness at minimum time. Allow standing time to finish cooking. Another reason could be smaller amounts or portions of food is being cooked than what was recommended in the recipe.

Why are some vegetables too soft and discolored after cooking? Perhaps they are overcooked to begin with and not enough moisture will cause them to turn dark. I like to cover my vegetables with a tight-fitting lid or plastic wrap. Just be sure you don't let the steam burn you when you remove the cover.

SEWING SEMINARS

Sewing for the $500 Look and Smart Tailoring are two three-hour seminars which will be given by Clotilde on February 12 at 6:30 p.m. and February 13 at 9:00 a.m. Reserved seats are being assigned on first come basis.

Both programs are being held at Enterprise State Junior College. For more information and/or registration forms call ESJC at 347-0630 or call the Extension Office at 894-5596.

CAMELIAS

Camelias are among the most popular landscape plants. To get yours off to a good start, I suggest planting them in a location that's well-drained, partially shaded and protected from the winter morning sun and harsh winds.

As a group, Camellia Japonica requires more shade than Camellia Sasanqua. Most Sasankas do well in the afternoon sun if given plenty of moisture.

Camelias have one bothersome insect problem -- tea scales. Control these tiny insects by regular sprays with an oil insecticide. Follow label instructions.

The Stockings Were Hung By The Chimney

BY: JULIE DAVIS

Wreaths, antlers, Santa's and reindeer were Christmas decorations made recently in Mrs. Gale Jackson's recourse class.

The wreaths were made of green yarn wrapped around cardboard. At the bottom of the wreath was placed a red ribbon tied in a bow. The antlers were made of poster board cut in the shape of antlers. The Santa's were made of red construction paper. Cotton balls were used for the beard and mustache. The reindeer were made of red, brown, black and white construction paper.

ZC Basketball Bulletin

The Rebels have dropped their last two games with losses to Florala and New Brockton, to go 2-2 at this point in the season. The Rebels and many fans feel they should have won both games, but due to mistakes and more than a fair share of bad breaks the Rebels lost the two straight games to home teams.

The B-team upped its record to 6-1 with a loss to New Brockton and a win over Florala. The B-team's only loss came due to a lack of fundamentals, but they will have a chance to avenge their loss in the latter part of the season.

Biology Projects Displayed

Each biology student had to do a project that was turned in on Monday, December 10. They had three weeks to complete their projects.

The only requirement was that they couldn't do their projects on poster paper. They could be done on anything pertaining to biology.

Spanish Club Makes Pinatas

BY: KIM BRUNSON

Glue, balloons and construction paper are a few of the materials a person needs when making a pinata.

The fifth and sixth period Spanish I classes were in their study of Christmas when they made pinatas. A pinata is used during festive times such as Christmas, birthdays and marriages.

Other materials used to make pinatas are tissue paper and newspaper.

Pinatas are made by blowing up a balloon and covering it with old newspaper strips. After letting it dry overnight you can decorate it to your liking. If you want to put candy in it, you can circle the top with newspaper more than the rest, cut it out, put candy in, and cover it back up.

A few of the designs the students are making include stars, hearts and birds.

Club Learns Carols In Spanish

BY: SHEILA SIMMONS

The Zion Chapel Spanish classes got into the spirit of Christmas by learning Christmas carols in Spanish. Songs that were sung were "Fito el Venadito" ("Rudolph the Rednose Reindeer") and "Noche de Paz" ("Silent Night").

Everyone enjoyed learning the songs in Spanish and some students are still singing them. As a Spanish student myself I can truthfully say that it is a pleasure to learn about the language of another country.

The songs were fun to learn because we already know the tunes to "Rudolph" and "Silent Night".

What Do Teens Worry About The Most?

BY: RHONDA SENN

What do teens worry about the most? Is it their futures, their families, or their school work? How often do teens cut class? Never, twice, or often? These were only a few of the questions asked of Zion Chapel students.

The recent poll taken at ZC was derived from the 15th annual Survey of High Achievers conducted by "Who's Who Among American High School Students". The survey questioned 7300 teens on familiar issues.

The questions asked of 88 students were to see how ZC teens measure up to those who answered the "Who's Who" survey.

"How do you feel about the grading at ZC?" was the first question. Sixty-nine percent of teens said they felt that teachers grade fairly for quality of work. Seventy-four percent of the "Who's Who" teens felt the same way. Teachers grade too low for quality of work was the opinion of eleven percent, while ten percent of "Who's Who" teens agreed.

The second question was "How do you feel about the athletic or academic programs at school?" Half the teens felt that schools should require a certain grade point for students in sports. Seventy-nine percent of "Who's Who" teens had the same opinion. Eighteen percent of ZC students thought their school adequately rewards student achievement in all areas.

Half of ZC students never cut classes while only twenty-five percent do once or twice. Sixty-nine percent of "Who's Who" teens never cut classes, while only twenty-three percent do once or twice.

"Everyone cheats in school sometimes" was the attitude toward cheating for fifty-six percent of ZC teens, but only fifty percent of "Who's Who" teens agreed. Twenty-five percent felt that cheating was absolutely wrong, to forty percent for "Who's Who" teens.

Seventy percent of ZC students have never tried drugs, which leaves thirty percent who have. ZC students felt the proudest of the U.S. when the hostages were freed from Iran. But the space shuttle program made "Who's Who" teens the proudest.

What do teens worry about the most? Forty-one percent worry about their future, and seventeen percent worry about dating and social relationships.

Special Christmas Stockings Are Made

BY: SHEILA SIMMONS

The elementary resource students in the classes of Mrs. Lou Ann Bryan had an enjoyable time making Christmas stockings for themselves. The stockings were made from a pattern that was about eight inches long, and were made from felt materials of red, green, gold and silver. The stockings were topped off with a red yarn tie.

The stockings were cut from the pattern and glued together. Each student wrote his name with glue and sprinkled it with glitter. Each stocking was done individually after the students had completed their work. It took about 20 minutes to complete one of the stockings.

The students enjoyed making their stockings because Mrs. Bryan said she was going to fill them with goodies when they were completed.

You can think of better ways to spend your money than for a Medicare deductible.

Humana Hospital offers Senior Citizens discount.

Humana Hospital will absorb up to $200 of your inpatient Medicare deductible or up to $200 of your supplemental insurance premium!

The Medicare deductible for an inpatient stay is now $356* through December 31, 1984. Effective January 1, 1985, the Medicare inpatient deductible increases to $400. This is the amount of your hospital bill you normally must pay out of your own pocket.

Humana Hospital has developed a new program to help reduce those Medicare deductible costs. It's called the Humana Seniors Courtesy Program.

If you are 65 or older, and don't have a supplemental insurance policy, the Humana Seniors Courtesy Program will waive up to $200 of the inpatient Medicare deductible amount you owe if you are hospitalized at Humana Hospital. Humana Hospital will also waive up to the $75 outpatient surgery deductible or co-payment amount you normally pay. We know you can think of better ways to spend the money you'll save!

Or, if you have supplemental insurance we'll pay up to $200 of your supplemental insurance premium, on your behalf, if you are admitted as an inpatient at Humana Hospital.

Many Medicare patients spend hundreds of dollars each year to buy supplemental insurance. This supplemental insurance pays the co-insurance and deductible amounts Medicare doesn't pay.

Humana Hospital wants to help reduce costs for supplemental insurance, too. If you're hospitalized, the Humana Seniors Courtesy Program goes to work for you. When you're discharged from the hospital, you'll receive a coupon. Send or bring the coupon along with a copy of your next supplemental insurance bill to us. We'll return the bill along with a check, up to $200, made out to your supplemental insurance company on your behalf.

We know you can think of better ways to spend $200 than paying your Medicare deductible or a supplemental insurance premium. If you need to be hospitalized, ask your doctor about the Humana Seniors Courtesy Program, or call your Humana Hospital - and save $200!

Under this Program; For Inpatient Care:

- If you don't have supplemental insurance, Humana Hospital will waive up to $200 of your Medicare inpatient deductible.
- If you have supplemental insurance, Humana Hospital will pay up to $200 towards your next premium. Either way you can save up to $200.

Under this Program; For Outpatient Surgery:

- Humana Hospital will waive the $75 outpatient deductible or $75 of the co-payment amount for outpatient surgery.
- If you have supplemental insurance, Humana Hospital will pay up to $75 towards your next premium. Either way you can save up to $75.

This Program is in effect through March 1, 1985.

Prior to the start of last week's county tournament I felt the championship was up for grabs. Kinston had a 7-1 record and was playing well; Zion Chapel was 5-2 and loaded with talent; New Brockton was 4-2 after two straight wins, and Enterprise was 0-0, but a 6A team that had played a rugged early season schedule. The only team I figured didn't have a real chance was Elba, who was 2-4 and coming off two losses. Boy, was I wrong!

Coach Hank Kennedy's Elba Tigers pulled off a miracle win against New Brockton and then played their hearts out to edge Kinston for the county crown. Elba's Mick Phillips scored 44 points in the two games, and hit two pressure-packed free-throws against New Brockton with no time on the clock to lead Elba; however, it was a true team effort, as John Hudson added 41 points and was a workhorse on the boards; and John Osburn scored 21 points against Kinston and led the team in rebounding. Everybody who hit the court played well for Elba and that's what made the wins so sweet.

This was the first "county tournament" in recent history and in my opinion it was a huge success. It's true the schools vary in size from 1A to 6A, but in basketball all it takes is five good players and a lot of hustle; and because of this the tournament will always be very competitive. I hope the county's coaches will stick together and make it an annual event!

The tournament may have included only five teams, but there was excitement and good play in every game. I've already told all about Elba, so here's a quick look at the rest of 'em and how they looked:

Kinston - The Bulldogs have a super team with plenty of quickness and deadly outside shooting. Kinston doesn't have much height, but it doesn't need it. The Bulldogs are tough!

Zion Chapel - The Rebels showed a lot of desire and talent, and have a very good team. The win over Enterprise should give them confidence to play well against anybody.

New Brockton - The Gamecocks have a good team and will win a bunch of games. If the other players will help Layman Hornsby out just a little, the Gamecocks could be mighty hard to beat.

Enterprise - The Wildcats play good, hard defense, and if they get their shooting eye straight they could beat some folks. They aren't an 0-7 team.

The New Year has arrived and so this week's high school poll will give teams a chance to knock off the Clipper's top teams in south Alabama. Here goes...

Elba Wins Coffee County Basketball Championship

The Elba Tigers claimed heart-stopping victories over the New Brockton Gamecocks and Kinston Bulldogs last week to win the championship of the 1st annual Coffee County Basketball Tournament.

Kinston placed second in the 5-team field, while Zion Chapel finished third. New Brockton finished fourth and Enterprise placed fifth.

Following is a complete tourney recap:

Opening Round:

Zion Chapel 56
Enterprise 48

Greg Flowers poured in 13 points in the fourth quarter, including 11 from the free-throw line, to spark the Zion Chapel Rebels to a 56-48 upset win over the Enterprise Wildcats.

Enterprise pulled out to a quick 6-0 lead in the opening stanza and took advantage of numerous Rebel turnovers to take a commanding 16-6 lead late in the quarter. Zion Chapel stayed close in the half on a 3-point play by Lynor Duncan.

The lead see-sawed in the closing minutes and Enterprise sneaked ahead 24-23 on a shot at the buzzer. Zion Chapel jumped ahead 28-24 early in the third quarter on a 3-point play to Tony Liptrot and the Rebels held on to carry a slim 34-32 lead into the final stanza.

Zion Chapel's lead went to 36-32 at the outset of the fourth quarter and remained at 4-points at 44-40 during Greg Flowers' parade to the foul-line and the Rebels put the game away when Frankie Downing converted easy lay-ups against the Wildcat press to stretch their lead to 52-42 with only 49 left. Enterprise continued to foul in the closing seconds in an attempt to catch-up, but it wasn't to be as Zion Chapel claimed the win!

Semi-Finals

Kinston 82
Zion Chapel 71

The Kinston Bulldogs pulled away in the final stanza to dump the Zion Chapel Rebels 82-71.

The contest was a see-saw affair in the opening quarter as both teams seemed content to run up-and-down the court. The Bulldogs, led by the play of Alvin Henderson, began to take control in the second quarter and opened up a 39-35 lead at the half. Zion Chapel stayed close in the third quarter and was behind 50-46 at the start of final stanza; however, the Rebels got in foul trouble in the fourth quarter and the Bulldogs made the most of their free-throws and pulled away for the win.

Alvin Henderson scored 21 points to lead Kinston, while Charles Edwards added 18. Greg Flowers poured in 30 points to pace Zion Chapel.

Hunting The

Bobwhite Quail

By: William Coggins

Late fall brings frost. Thanksgiving and the bobwhite hunting season. This small 6-8 ounce brown and buff-colored quail has been called the "ideal American game bird." It earned this reputation because coveys hold for a pointing dog, and when flushed, the dispersing birds fly only a short distance, providing the hunting opportunity to hunt "singles." Their explosive flight makes them challenging wing shot targets.

Alabama's quail population can be classified as fair to good statewide. In the past twenty years there has been a notable decline in quail populations. This can be directly attributed to changing land use patterns in our state. With the changes from small family patch farms to large farming operations, the hedgerows, fence rows and edge conditions so vital as bobwhite habitat have been removed. A reduction in quail habitat and population has resulted. Areas intensively managed to provide an abundance of high quality habitat continue to harbor excellent bobwhite populations.

The bobwhite is found throughout Alabama, and just about anyone can find a place to hunt them, either on private land, on one of the several quail hunting preserves, or on a state-operated wildlife management area. The best quail hunting probably is still on private land holdings. Gone, however, are the days when a quail hunter might expect to find a welcome to hunt anywhere his bird dog would lead. Private land in Alabama is posted by law, and written permission is required to hunt. When properly approached many landowners will give responsible quail hunters permission to hunt.

The commercial quail hunting preserves offer a wide range of services, depending on how much a hunter wants to spend. Services can vary from simply paying a fee to hunt on the property, to guide service, dog rental, meals, lodging, and a full complement of services. These preserves offer excellent quail hunting for those who can afford the price.

Hunters without access to private land or with the funds necessary for commercial preserve hunting may choose to hunt on one of the state wildlife management areas. Most of the areas offer quail hunting. The quality ranges from fair to very good, depending on the forest management activities on the area. Harvest permits are issued on several of the areas compared quite favorably with the quail hunting found off the areas. Many of the areas could withstand more quail hunting pressure.

Health Officer Declares Rabies Epidemic In Coffee County

Dr. Ira L. Myers, state health officer, has declared that an epidemic, or epidemic, of rabies exists in 16 counties in the southeast quadrant of the state. He has requested the assistance of officials in these counties to reduce the incidence and risk of infection and to aid in control measures.

Rabies is an infectious virus disease of warm-blooded animals and man which can lead to paralysis and death. This always-fatal disease is usually spread from one infected animal to another animal or man through the saliva. Any mammal can have the disease, but most cases in Alabama are found in raccoons, skunks, bats or foxes.

The following steps are recommended for the control of rabies under existing conditions:

1. Immediate immunization of all dogs, cats and valuable livestock.
2. State law requires that all dogs and cats over three months of age be vaccinated annually.
3. Strict control and destruction of all stray and unwanted dogs and cats in the area.
4. Avoidance of all contact with wild animals, especially raccoons, bats and foxes.
5. Immediate reporting of abnormal behavior in pets or livestock to your local veterinarian or the local health department. Be alert to any changes in an animal's behavior and notify a veterinarian at once if the animal begins foaming at the mouth, becomes vicious or agitated, or shows signs of paralysis.
6. Rabies can be controlled if the public obeys state laws which require pet owners to immunize their domesticated animals annually," said Dr. Wallace Birch, director of the Bureau of Epidemiology and Consultation of the Alabama Department of Public Health. "But these laws will protect you only if you and your neighbors cooperate and support them."

Prominent Merchant Dies Sunday, Jan. 6

Elba lost a leading citizen Sunday when death claimed James J. Wise Jr. who died in the local hospital shortly after noon. Wise was a native of Elba and had operated Wise Men's Store with his mother since the death of his father in 1959 when the younger Mr. Wise was 18 years old and a student at the University of Alabama.

A strong family man and avid supporter of Elba, Mr. Wise had served on the Elba City Council from 1976 to 1980, been active in the Chamber of Commerce, active in support of the local school's academic and athletic programs. He worked almost singlehandedly to get the annual Christmas parade started, a project he continued to work closely with every year.

Funeral services were held Tuesday. (See Obituaries.)

Elba City Schools To Receive Additional State Funds

The Elba City School System will get an unexpected financial boost soon as a result of Gov. George Wallace's approval for distributing $12 million to state school systems for math, science, language arts and computer education.

The funds were set aside by the 1984 Legislature as part of the governor's Education Reform Program. The funds are divided into two grants - an $8 million formula grant and a $4 million competitive grant.

"The $8 million formula grant will be based on a school's enrollment," stated Elba Supt. John Osburn, "while the $4 million competitive grant will be disbursed on the basis of need."

The City School System will receive $14,437 from the formula grant and will also apply for a portion of the additional $4 million grant. To receive additional funding, a system must submit an application to the State Dept. of Education identifying the need and explaining how it will be met.

Water & Electric Board Extends Contract With AEC

The Elba Water and Electric Board climaxed several months of study and debate Tuesday night by approving, on a 3-2 vote, to extend the present wholesale electric contract with Alabama Electric Co-op (AEC) for an additional twenty years, or until 2025. The present contract had until 2005 until expiration.

Purpose of the extension, according to AEC officials, was to allow them to borrow money from the federal Rural Electrification Administration (REA) on forty-year loans. Elba was the last of 23 co-op members of AEC to sign the twenty-year extension.

Attending the meeting on behalf of the co-op was Manager Charles Lowman, Jerry Andrews, and A.G. Palamore, along with Jack Taylor of the City of Brundidge.

Present were board members Cleo Hawkins, Mickey Murdock, Jack Prescott, Gladys Yelverton and Chairman Oscar Vaughan, along with Mayor Bob English, who also serves as superintendent of the Elba Water Department.

The 3-2 vote was on a motion by Prescott and seconded by Hawkins to "approve extension of the power contract with AEC and authorize the chairman and secretary-treasurer to sign the necessary papers." The vote for the motion included those making the motion and Yelverton. Voting against the extension was Murdock, and Chairman Vaughan also asked to go on record as opposing the extension.

English, on several occasions, asked AEC representatives if they could assure Elba that in the future power from the co-op would be cheaper than buying from Alabama Power. Lowman presented figures that disagreed with those English had compiled, over the savings that would have in the past resulted from purchasing power from Alabama Power rather than AEC. He also gave several reasons he felt future purchases from AEC would be advantageous to Elba and other co-op member-owners.

Much of the discussion centered around the allocation of hydro generated power from the federal government. Presently the "preferred customer" allocation for the people of Elba is being sold to AEC under a long-term contract, and there were various opinions over the possibility of getting this allocation reassigned.

Lowman also noted that there was at least one increase in price already scheduled for this federal power (commonly called SEPA). He also noted that there was a move to increase the cost of this electricity to "fair market value" which would be a large increase. It would help the federal government balance the budget, but would cost users of power. Lowman explained that if Elba was getting the 17 percent of its power from SEPA as proposed by English, this raise did take place, it would cause large increases in cost, while AEC only depends on SEPA for seven percent, and the cost impact would be smaller.
